

Grass Soup & Donkey Bread

Hilmi Saber - March 2024

The first story of American Herman Zerger who was a prisoner of war in Germany WW II :. He says in a documentary:

“ I was in, overall, five prison camps. We didn't get any food parcels because the Germans were keeping them. What we had was grass soup, and the broth even was green.

And I always said you could smell it from a mile away, and I lost 35 pounds. The food parcels we got from over here we never got because the Germans were keeping them.

... Anyway, I had three or four chocolate bars and, I think that's what kept me going, because I couldn't eat that grass soup. “

The second is about a child in Gaza. She was complaining:
I am hungry, I want food. She said: What remains is to bray like donkeys; because the bread she eats is made of donkey' fodder.
She could not eat it. She is hungry and starving. It is so painful when a child says: I am not a donkey !. I am a child in a Barn of Open Prison.

Did you see any differences between the two stories ?!
The similarity: both were considered animals !.

Then, no surprise, when animal food is given.

I am wondering: what was given to the donkeys and sheep ?!

Maybe: Hemberger and dessert !.

Is there similarity between the Nazi and Zionist ?!.

It would be tastier if you mix the grass in fodder.
